So far I have two definite replies and two should be replies about who will be here tomorrow (the 1st), as well as one maybe (all via email). I want to keep this information updated on the forums so I don't remain the only person in the know about who is in and who isn't.

I have the latest version of the sections we are or might be testing printed out (as well as some updated Character sheets), so everything should be ready. I look forward to seeing whoever ends up showing up (even if you didn't reply).
